

Residents of Precinct 2-2,

Do Precinct 2-2's constituents have the capability to function as a civic whole? By capability, does the means & will exist to do so?

Could civic priorities be suggested, and reported back to the precinct's constituents? Using the Voter Registry List (VRL), can majority agreement be measured, verified, and reported?

For example:

1. Suggesting being a group of constituents publishing a civic priority for the whole precinct to consider.
2. Measuring and verifying being publishing proof that the majority of active voters, on the VRL, support a civic priority.
3. Reporting being a simple, concise, publication of, civically focused, news following the progression towards a consensus.

The Value of Consensuses

A consensus gives standing for constituents to interact with government officials/entities as the electorate. Entity examples include special, school, municipality, and countywide tax districts, legislative and judicial districts as well as the state as a whole.

Regarding precincts, the immediate value of forming consensuses is identifying priorities for each of our Elected Offices/Races. Then tracking the progress of current Electeds regarding those stated priorities, and vetting candidates for the upcoming elections to conclude whether a change in representation is necessary.

It allows the constituents of a precinct, a tax district, a legislative district, a judicial district, or the state to function as a civic whole rather than a collection of, isolated, voters.

A Civic Age

Is local & state government of, by, and for the governed desirable? If so, then civic deliberation should be done by the constituents. The republic exists to formalize the electorates' will.

Thank-you for your attention and consideration of this matter.

Kind Regards,

Noll Roberts
